Atlanta Woman

Kerrie Rivard

DELEGADA

Kerrie Rivard is originally from Canada and now lives in Atlanta with her husband Paul and 6 children who are 7-19 years old. Kerrie and Paul incorporated in to Regnum Christi in 1999 and are both second degree, second level members. In Canada, her apostolates included local and regional director for FAMILIA, as well as RC team leader, spiritual guide and LCA assistant. From 2007-2015, after moving to Atlanta, she served as National Director of RC section support. Her current role is Leadership Training & Communications for Regnum Christi North America.

In 2013 Kerrie was elected to the International Commission of Lay members for Regnum Christi and spent 12 months working with the Legionary and Consecrated General governments as well as the papal delegate to build the initial framework for collaboration of the Legionary, consecrated and lay branches and begin work on the lay statute revision process. In 2014 Kerrie was appointed as Executive Leader of the North American Renewal Commission, working with a team to serve the needs of the lay members locally as they worked through the discernment and revision of the lay statutes.

Kerrie loves reading, going to her kids' soccer games and considers dark chocolate a tangible sign of God's love for her. Her favorite places are a nice white-sand beach and being in front of the Blessed Sacrament.

Hobbies

I love to read and write and spend time with my children and husband.
